SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7. THE RE-CONSTRUCTED CAB INET.

On His Majesty's retarn to town from Koolau last Saturday P. M., He was pleased to make the following Ministerial appointments: MINISTER OF FINANCE, J. S. Walker,

MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, MINISTER OF INTERIOR. W. L. Moehonua

ATTORNEY GENERAL, R. H. Stanley The general public was not apprized of the new appointments until Monday morning, when the announcement was received with very general satisfaction. The subject of a re-construction of the Cabinet had been for several weeks past in every mind and on every tongue, and very naturally a good deal of solicitude had been felt and expressed as to who were the coming men in the administration of the Government. This attitude of suspense on the part of the public mind has now happily changed into one of satisfaction at the result. The somewhat delicate task which devolved upon His Majesty in the formation of a Cabinet, under all the circumstances, has developed the qualities of sound judgment and tact, as well as a genuine regard for the best interests of the country.

In the present arrangement of the Cabinet it will be observed that Mr. Green returns to the post to which he was appointed on His Majesty's accession-that of Minister of Foreign Affairs; and that Mr. Stanley also retains the position of Attorney General.

The two new men now called to office, are J. S. Walker, Esq., in the position of Minister of Finance, and Major Mochonua in that of the Privy Council on Thursday last His Majesty had Interior.

Mr. Walker has been for a number of years Smith, and S. P. We quote: of the King. He is a Scotchman by birth but an American by adoption, and long a resident of one of the Western States of the American Union.

In the appointment once more of a native Hawalian to a position in the Cabinet, His Majesty has recognized a principle for which we have always contended ever since the days of the Kamehamehas-that whenever possible to do so, native Hawaiians should be selected for the higher as well as the subordinate offices of Government. Major Moehonua is a gentleman in every sense of the word, highly intelligent and well educated in his own language, and extremely popular among his countrymen-and foreigners as well. His appointment to the important office of Minister of plate a great deal of work for the Board, in the the Interior will contribute materially to the way of negotiating loans to those in need of public confidence in the strength of the Cabinet.

A moment's conrather forcibly illustrates the intimate nature of sideration will show the magnitude of the labor our relations with that country. Here are some which this would involve, and that the proposed sixty young persons, mostly of the male sex, born | Board, under such circumstances, would become and nurtured in these tropical isles of the sea, a most important body, and in fact the most imand which they must ever regard as their " dear portant branch of the government, in a financial native land," but who, educated in America, will be quite sure to regard that land as the " mother country," in much the same sense that the Australian-born Briton regards old England. And indeed, the moral and social ties that bind us to the United States, though not so tangible as those of trade and commerce, which we are now the practice followed in some other countries : endeavoring to increase and strengthen, are evertheless'quite as real and lasting, and will exert a marked influence upon our future destiny. The names and the associations of Harvard, and Yale, and Amherst, et id omne, will become as household words,-not around our firesides, but on our verandas.

of men among his subjects. In the exercise theremen as in his judgment will best assist him in carrying out his policy of government, all loyal subjects will give His Majesty the credit of having acted from thoroughly patriotic motives.

Doubtless there are many in the community who imagine they could have made better selections in the making up of a Cabinet-it would be strange if it were not so; but fortunately they were not called upon to choose for the King. To hear some of these wiseacres, one would imagine that the proper thing would be to submit the election of a Ministry to the popular vote, or to a showing of hands on the street corners. That some have been "surprised and disappointed" at the formation of the Ministry, is unquestionably true; but these adjectives will not do justice to the subject. Instead of surprised, read shocked, as by an electric battery; and in the place of disappointed, read "plunged in a gulf of dark despair."

With such persons, to whose imaginations Aliio-lani House has presented the pleasing and hopeful theatre of future quict but deep jobbery and lucrative preferment through the judicious manipulation of various wires, the consummation of the new Cabinet must have impinged upon the senses after the manner of an earthquake, or a

The King should be-and the recent ap-allow to be paid from the Treasury any money for objects not provided for by this law." Thus, as we hold, the provisions of Section 6 of the Loan Act as above quoted, must remain inoperative so far as authorizing the loaning out to individuals any portion of the money which may be obtained under that Act. What, then, it will be asked, are the duties of the Board? Under Section 5 of the Act in question their approval is necessary to enable the Minister of Finance to negotiate the loan, or any portion of it, in any foreign country, or to dispose of the Bonds; and they may authorize the expenditure of moneys for "the building of warehouses for the reception of produce, and for the promotion of steam navigation." But the consent of the Board would seem to be quite unnecessary in the matter of warehouses, inter-island steam navigation and immigration, seeing that the Legislature has specifically appropriated for these objects, the sums respectively of $17,000, $10,000, and $50,-000. The actual duties of the Board therefore, are circumscribed to the nogotiation of the proposed loan of a million of dollars, which, if obpropriation by the Legislature.

The above is clipped from a short editorial in the Gazette of this week, and judging from the 'gush'' of its style must have been penned before the announcement was received of the reconstruction of the Cabinet, moreover, as near by we are told by the editor that "the Cabinet, as reconstructed, fails to meet public expectation, and will tend to foster public distrust." And There was electricity in the air on Monday this again reads rather oddly, in close juxtaposition with the further remark that, "The Cabinet having been reorganized and remodeled, we trust that it will take hold of the great work now seems to be admitted by all thinking men; but | before the country in right earnest." Further the difficulty with some is that they themselves along, we are treated to an article on "Canadian wish to be the judges of the fitness of any native | Reciprocity," the effect of which on readers here for office, and the result would be the exclusion is to apply a wet blanket to our own kindling aspiof all. As for instance, no native Hawaiian has rations in that direction. Thus we find this yet been sufficiently educated outside of his own | motley-sided editor, first by trying to incite public language to intelligently fill the office of Minister | distrust in the King's Cabinet, and second by of Foreign Affairs; and had a native been placed parading the arguments of two American politicians against reciprocity, seeking to throw obstacles in the way of a measure of vital national importance; and thereby supplying himself the most conclusive reasons why he should either " keep silence or ask for a ' ticket of leave.' The fact that the head of that department is a native Hawaiian, will undeniably have the It is taken for granted that a Reciprocity Treaty will prove beneficial to sugar planters and all effect among the people at large to inspire a feelothers residing upon the islands, both natives and foreigners, though we are inclined to think, that the golden harvest will not prove quite so abundant as some imagine. Respecting, however, the profit to American merchants and ship owners, we the necessity of securing and maintaining the have no doubt. A few days ago, we were coming ashore from the U. S. S. Benicia, and the officer sitting by our side remarked, as we were admiring a trim newly painted and handsome American bri gantine about to sail for Oregon, "that craft is coining money for her owners." This remark led to a similar one respecting a certain clipper bark anning between Honolulu and San Francisco. Now there is a small fleet of sugar and lumber vessels plying between the islands and the coast. There is no doubt these vessels are running most profitably for merchants and ship owners. As the speak-for a small fraction only of the foreign officer remarked "these vessels are coining money for their owners." population of the country, ignoring altogether

Now, we argue that a Reciprocity Treaty will increase tenfold the number of these barks, brigs and schooners flying like shuttles between the Hawaiian Islands and the western coast of America, he natural market for our sugars, rice, bananas, and others products, while our islands form a respective duties with faithfulness and for the market for manufactures and products of the United States. [Last year-1873-according to Custom House Jeturns, these islands exported to the therefore desirous that they shall have a fair trial | United States products to the value of $1.139,--it is however our province as public journalists 725.81, while imports from the United States amounted to $529,982.08. Reciprocity would quicken trade, multiply vessels laden with products of each country, and enrich not only the Hawaiian Islands, but merchants and ship owners on the coast. What the East India Islands are to Europe and the West India Islands to the Atlantic States, the Hawaiian Islands will prove to the Pacific Coast of America, if commerce is increased and our products find a good market. How can we buy goods unless our products find a good market? For two hundred and more years the cities of the United States on the Atlantic Coast have been trading profitably with Cuba, Jamaica, and other neighboring islands. Portland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and others cities have grown rich from trade with those islands. San Francisco, Portland and others derive similar benefits and profits from a quickened trade with the Hawaiian Islands.

Local Option in California.

It will be remembered that recently the Legistature of California passed a law, giving the people of each separate township the right to decide at the polls whether the sale of intoxicating drinks should be allowed or not. During the summer, the elections took place under this law throughout the state, resulting in much excitement in many townships where the contest between the Prohibitionists and their opponents was close, and some disgraceful scenes were witnessed, in which rowdyism was rampant. But the weight of public orinion in California is no doubt against the Prohibition principle, although very many townships voted against license by respectable majorities. A test case was taken to the Supreme Court, and on the 28th of September, that tribunal, in a long opinion, which appears in full in the newspapers, declared the Local Option Law unconstitutional. The decision was rendered by Judge McKinstry, Judges Wallace and Niles concurring, and Rhodes and Crocket dissenting. The decision is based on the point that the Legislature has no power to delegate its function of making laws. This, for the present at least, would appear to be the end of an agitation which, however laudable in itself, was believed by many temperance people to be misdirected. The strong temperance sentiment however survives the death of Local Option, and is steadily growing. It was an evidence of a great moral progress that such a law should not only be passed by the Legislature of the State, but should have received the endorsement of so many cities and villages. The opinion of the press is, that as a result of this sentiment, California will get a really valuable temperance law.

"It is the experience of the world that mankind cannot be reformed at a single effort. No law was ever passed that changed the whole habits of a peo-The first step in a really natural temperance reform would be to place the sale of liquor in respectable hands, and the second to discriminale against

But the radical temperance men of California are not content to rest quietly under the triumph of their opponents in the Supreme Court, and are determined upon a renewal of the contest. The "Local Option League " of San Francisco held a meeting on the 30th of September, at which a circular was prepared and adopted, for distribution throughout the State, under the Loan Act? We are most clearly of the with the design of promoting concert of action on Moral sussion has been tried with but partial success. Many are induced to leave their cups for a time, but the allurements of appetite and companionship, in too many cases, carry them back to their former habits. They finish their course as confirmed drunkards and sink into their graves victims of strong drink.

Feeling the truth of this, the friends of temperance in this State know they can accomplish but little without effective legislation, which can only be obtained by combined action in supporting for office men imbued with the principles we advocate. To that end an Executive Committee has been chosen, to act until a State Cenvention can be assembled, for the purpose of fully organizing a political temperance party.

Thursday, November 19, 1874. Resolved, That we call upon all temperance or ganizations and societies, of every kind or name, who sympathize with this political movement, to take immediate steps and elect delegates to the State Convention, to be held in November, with a view to thorough organization for political action at the next State election, and that they be requested to send the names of their delegates to the Secretary of this League, and that the Secretary be requested to pubsh them as they come in.

There is a report that Frank Walworth being regarded by officers of the Auburn Asylum for insane prisoners as beyond recovery, they suggest that it would be well to restore him to the custody of his re latives. Upon this the New York Observer sensibly remarks: " But why an insane murderer should be restored to his friends when the insane who have not committed murder are sent to asylums for their own benefit as well as for the relief and security of friends, is something we cannot understand. It looks very much like a plan to obtain the release of a pris

A case of interest to newspaper proprietors was recently decided by Vice Chancellor Little at Liverpool. Mr. John Vaughn, editor of the Liverpool Leader, had been summoned before the Registrar to answer questions as to the sources of his information for articles which appear in the Leader with reference to the Civil Service Association. Mr. Vaughan refused steadily to disclose his information, taking the responsibility of the articles upon himself, and after many adjournments and long arguments on both sides, the Vice Chancellor decided that he was not bound to answer the questions.
